Thirty-Six Billion

Former in Manitoba Lodes What Twice In Same Case
There is one chance in thirty-six billion of it happening again.
The town of Argus, Manitoba, on September 20, a farmer named C. R. Somerville, headed part of his cow herd of Number 2 Durum into Canada National Car No. 42871. The car was to the head of the lake, was equipped and started west again. On October 1, eleven days later, it left the town of Argus, Manitoba, and came from the fields of the same farm, C. R. Somerville. "The time was about was Number 4 Durum, but the car was the same and the farmer was the same."

T. P. Whita, Canadian National Railway's superintendent of car service, said the lode was a reflection on the smoothness with which the great machine of car transportation, handling millions of loads, is running. But he realizes that it will never happen again in his lifetime.
From statistics as to the number of box cars and shipping stations to the west, and taking an average of 750000 cars a year, it is estimated that the number of cars which might possibly load at a point like Argus, it has been estimated that there is one chance in thirty-six billion of a car going back to the same place and loading point.

A Hemisphere Of Water

Area Of Pacific Ocean Is Seventy Million Square Miles

The immensity of the Pacific Ocean is hard to realize. It is the largest of the Atlantic, its size compared to the Pacific is like a reflection on the smoothness with which the great machine of car transportation, handling millions of loads, is running. But he realizes that it will never happen again in his lifetime.

Wrangel Island Colony Starving

Steamer With Relief Supplies and Also Airplane Fail To Reach It to 2 to 3 food to five Russians and 35 Eskimos who have been cut off from the world on Wrangel Island since 1926, is causing much worry at Surovaya Bay, Siberia.

The steamer Stavropol, assigned to carry the colony a three-year supply of food, fuel and medicine, failed to break through the ice and recently turned.

Orders have come from Premier Khrushchev that other measures must be taken to reach the island, since help next summer might be too late. An airplane that set out on the same tion as a ship was also compelled to return.

Wrangel Island has a record of tragedy which well may frighten members of the Russian expedition residing there now. If, indeed, disaster has not already overtaken some, all of them.

In 1921 an expedition was fitted out at Nome, Alaska, under the supervision of Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, to take possession of the island in the name of Canada. Stefansson did not go himself, but

The expedition in the charge of young Canadian, Allan Crawford, Toronto. The expedition landed on the island in 1922. Nothing more was heard from it until late in 1923, when a relief expedition found only Ada Blackack, an Eskimo seamstress, alive. One member of the expedition, George Knight, had died of scurvy during the winter preceding. It was said, while three others, Allan Crawford, Frederick Maurer, and

When Galle had set out to reach beria over the ice, they have never heard from since.

Entries in the diaries of those on island indicate an extreme shortage of food. Milton Galle writes in his diary for August 1922, five months before he set out with his two comrades for Siberia: "Crawford and I have been dipping hard bread in melted seal blubber all day long and seem never to get filled."

Considerable controversy followed the revelation of the tragedy, in which the charge was heard from several sources that Stefansson had been derelict in the fulfillment of his duties to those composing the expedition to Wrangell Island. It was that when the party left, the Slater had promised to come out

Other evidence, however, pointed the men's intention to live off at game they might kill, a possibility Stefansson had already proven attainable in his long experience in the Northland. Culpability in the mat- was the subject of considerable newspaper controversy for more than years following the discovery of tragedy late in 1923.

Wrangel Island is listed in the Encyclopædia Britannica as belonging to Sweden, although claims of a sort by Great Britain and the United States might be supported by one circumstance or another.
